Entrances

- Axis Replay has one accessible entrance off Krog Street & one entrance with stairs off the Beltline.
- Krog Street entrance has 2 sets of doors to pass through.
  - First set of doors are the entrance to The Stove Works. The Stove Works is the name of the building that houses Axis Replay.
    - This first set has a doorway on the left with 2 pull doors with a solid vertical handle. When open, the doorway clearance is >6 feet.

- The entrance to The Stove Works to the right is a large garage door which would allow of vehicles as large as trucks to pass through.
- Second set of doors are the entrance from The Stove Works into the Axis Replay space.
  - One pull door to enter with a lever.
  - Pull doorway clearance when open is 36 inches.
  - One garage door to the left to enter, when open >6ft of doorway clearance.

Interior Design

- The Axis Replay space is open concept with 40 ft x 60 ft area where the majority of game play occurs.
- Bright room with natural & fluorescent lights.
- Low grad carpet and concrete flooring.
- White noise is the dominant sound unless the sound system is playing.
- Large screens and the number of computers in use provide a visually stimulating environment with occasional strobe light effect.
- Several rows of gaming desks are stationed in the main gaming area. When two gamers are playing back-to-back an average of 3 feet of open space remains between rows.
- The space not occupied by the rows of gaming desks is modular in design resulting in a consistently shifting floor plan. The AGS team will ensure this modular space is as accessible as possible for the event.

Table Types

- High top have 36 inches of clearance and a large center metal table leg.
- Long low tables have 27.5 inches of clearance and table legs at the four corners.
- Gaming desks have 28.8 inches of clearance and 3 foot wide space under the desk with a depth of 28 inches. Leg design of the desks tucks backward along floor minimizing interference with leg room.
